Leading the Future of Sustainable Winemaking

Journey's End has become South Africa's first B Corp Certified vineyard and winery — a prestigious global accreditation recognising businesses with outstanding social and environmental impact, transparency, and accountability.

Since its founding in 1995, Journey's End has championed sustainability through climate resilience, biodiversity protection, and community upliftment, all while crafting exceptional wines.

Key initiatives aligned with B Corp certification include operating as one of South Africa's first solar-powered, fully off-grid wineries; implementing rainwater harvesting, wastewater recycling, and precision irrigation to support responsible water use; planting over 10,500 spekboom to enhance carbon capture and soil health; and providing over six million meals through local, female-run soup kitchens.

Stephanie von Oppell, Global Head of Marketing, says, "As we close B Corp Month, we're proud to lead the way in impact-driven winemaking. This milestone belongs to the dedicated team behind Journey's End."

Experience Regenerative Luxury

THE FOREST PODS AT FUTURE FOUND SANCTUARY

Introducing the Forest Pods at Future Found Sanctuary — Cape Town's first and only five-star regenerative travel destination, offering a unique way to experience its breathtaking natural surroundings. Tucked between Hout Bay's lush mountainside, the Forest Pods bring the Sanctuary's design-led, regenerative travel ethos into closer harmony with nature — a place where design, nature, and well-being merge seamlessly.

Cradled between Villa Verte and Maison Noir, the two Forest Pods offer distinct perspectives: Sky Pod gazes over the rolling valleys of Constantia Nek, while Earth Pod sits lower in a quiet, forested enclave. Together, they redefine luxury with intentional design, tranquillity, and a deep connection to the landscape.

Designed by Sean Mahoney of StudioMAS, the Forest Pods embrace both minimalism and purpose. Inside, a contemporary yet soulful aesthetic crafted by owners Jim Brett and Ed Gray, alongside Greg McFarlan, the pods combine South African design with natural textures like wood and stone, prioritizing comfort, simplicity, and grounded presence. Expansive sliding doors dissolve the barrier between indoor and outdoor, bringing in fresh air, light, and the sounds of nature—from a nearby stream to birdsong filtering through the canopy.

Each pod features an open-plan layout, complete with a king-size bed, en-suite bathroom, lounge, dining area, and private outdoor space, promoting a slower, more connected pace of living. Perfect for couples, solo travellers, or small groups, the pods can be booked individually or combined for a two-bedroom private escape, offering both seclusion and connection.

Despite their sense of privacy, the Forest Pods are an integral part of the broader Future Found Sanctuary experience. Guests enjoy full access to holistic amenities, including heated swimming and cold plunge pools, the Sensorium Spa, a world-class gym, yoga spaces, and curated dining experiences at Maison Noir and Villa Verte, all surrounded by nature. The private cinema and wine cellar offer further opportunities for relaxation, making every guest's experience uniquely their own.

Guest feedback has been overwhelmingly positive, with many describing it as "a private estate within an estate"—a place that's expansive yet intimate. A true study in organic minimalism, the Forest Pods welcome guests into a space where design, nature, and wellness come together.

Newly appointed Chef Malika van Reenen leads a garden-driven culinary program, crafting daily-changing menus that highlight the property's own gardens and local small-scale suppliers. Chef Malika brings nearly three decades of experience in leading hotels, restaurants, and remote luxury lodges to her role at Future Found Sanctuary. Raised in Cape Town, her culinary journey spans senior positions at Ginger Restaurant, Cape Grace Hotel, and private lodges in Zimbabwe, Kenya, and Limpopo. Drawing from her Cape Malay heritage and international influences, Malika blends fusion flavours with traditional techniques, always focusing on locally sourced, seasonal ingredients. At Future Found Sanctuary, Chef Malika leads a garden-driven Her philosophy? Goodfood is about memory—shaped by the moment, the surroundings, and the company.

A South African Experience Unlike Any Other at Grootbos Private Nature Reserve

South Africa is a country of stunning diversity, where landscapes and ecosystems are as unique as they are beautiful.

The Cape Floral Kingdom stands out as a truly exceptional destination among these remarkable places. It is an area that holds over 9,000 species of fynbos, 70% of which are found nowhere else on Earth. This makes it one of the most diverse floras in the world and a unique biodiversity hotspot.

Amidst this natural splendour lies Grootbos Private Nature Reserve, a global leader in progressive tourism. The reserve features two luxurious lodges, Garden Lodge and Forest Lodge, as well as two exclusive-use villas.

Grootbos prides itself on creating unique experiences that allow you to connect with nature and explore its vibrant world of fauna and flora. With experiences like 4x4 flower safaris led by passionate guides, you'll discover the beauty of the Cape Floral Kingdom and witness the captivating story of fynbos as you touch, smell and see the natural wonders surrounding you. Grootbos is also home to some of the largest Milkwood forests in the world, with ancient trees estimated to be over 1,000 years old.

The reserve's intricate fynbos and natural beauty have inspired Grootbos for the past 25 years, leading to the documentation of over 1,000 floral species and the creation of Africa's first contemporary florilegium, housed within the Hannarie Wenhold Botanical Art Gallery.

Beyond the fynbos and forests, the breathtaking Walker Bay coastline awaits. With panoramic views of this pristine coastline. Guided 4x4 coastal safaris, ancient coastal cave tours and Marine Big 5 boat cruises are just a few of the incredible experiences you can enjoy.

For a more restorative escape, unwind at one of the two wellness spas on the reserve, where bespoke spa treatments will rejuvenate the mind, body, and spirit.

When it comes to dining at Grootbos, every delicious meal is meticulously crafted and served in the most spectacular settings. Choose from the lodge restaurants offering breathtaking views, the elegant wine cellar that houses one of the most prestigious local wine collections in South Africa, or the magical outdoor bomas set amidst ancient Milkwood forests.

A stay at Grootbos promises to be an inspiring experience that deepens your connection with nature, rejuvenates your spirit, and transforms the way you see the world around you.

From a small 123-hectare family farm, Grootbos has expanded into a vast 3,650-hectare reserve over the past 25 years. This incredible growth reflects a steadfast commitment to preserving the Cape Floral Kingdom, which lies at the core of everything Grootbos does. Through dedicated conservation efforts, the reserve has become a global leader in sustainable and experiential tourism, earning some of the world's highest accolades.

In 2003, it established the Grootbos Foundation, a non-profit organisation dedicated to fynbos conservation and empowering local communities through training and skills development. Today, the foundation has forty full-time employees driving essential conservation and community initiatives in the surrounding area. In 2024 alone, it positively impacted 4,332 lives — a number that continues to grow each year.
